Adler for All Mankind

This month, home-décor designer JONATHAN ADLER puts his playful stamp on his first ever foray into fashion. A collaboration with denim masters 7 for All Mankind, the line marries great 7 fit with Adler's signature patterns and motifs, as well as distinctive themes inspired by getaway spots he holds dear. "Plus, there are myriad details like cute pocket stitching and striped linings," Adler adds, "all crafted with love." Aww!

We heart Adler's whimsy

TV

The stars tear away from the tube to rave about fave shows

"Time for my weekly dose of Intervention. Love this show!"

—ASHTON KUTCHER

"Can you get a DUI from watching Yo Gabba Gabba & driving?"

—NICOLE RICHIE

"Watching the late-night Web Soup marathon on G4. Chris Hardwick—heck, the whole show—is high-spanking-larious. A must Tivo!"

—NEIL PATRICK HARRIS

"Just caught part of a Buffy episode. Umm ... that show was SCARY! I'm gonna have nightmares (& not just about my wardrobe)!"

—ALYSON HANNIGAN

"I'm at my parents' house in Texas, and they're asleep, and I'm all alone watchin' Nightline!"

—AMANDA BYNES

"I just found myself yelling, 'Don't make the deal' watching Let's Make a Deal. I need to get out more!"

—CHRISTINA APPLIGATE

Sephora i.T. brush collection, $14-$40 each; sephora.com.

TOP TOOLS

Monet's paintbrush was arguably as important as his pigments. Using these ultra-precise, color-coded brushes (fuchsia for face, violet and blue for eyes and brows), you can treat your own face like a master's canvas.

Off the Runway

"Reality television is real," says Laura Bennett in her behind-the-scenes dish, Didn't I Feed You Yesterday? ($24; bn.com). Three snippets from Project Runway's very talented, very pregnant contender (now mom to six kids):

- "This week's challenge" was really 'this day's challenge'—we got assignments daily."
- "Elimination days were easier physically but more draining emotionally. The 15-minute runway/judging took all day—with no clue whether you'd be getting das boot."
- "The camera doesn't lie. It's on 24/7, and you're miked until you go to bed. It's not possible to be someone that you're not."

Season 3's Bennett confers with Tim Gunn.
