Time To Hit the Books

Autumn leaves are turning. So are pages. A handful of New York designers are trading coffee tables for coffee-table books—just in time for those holiday gift bazaars.

Interior Design Hall of Fame members make a showing, of course. In Victoria Hagan: Interior Portraits (Rizzoli New York), Marianne Hagan conducts a tour of her sister's celebrated portfolio. And Robert A.M. Stern has penned the foreword to Peter Pennoyer Architects: Apartments, Townhouses and Country Homes (Vendome Press), a survey by Anne Walker.

Walker also teams up with Interior Design blogger Thomas Jayne on The Finest Rooms in America (Monacelli Press), an assessment of 50 influential interiors from the 18th century to the present—Thomas Jefferson to Christopher Coleman. Alexa Hampton teaches the fundamentals in The Language of Interior Design (Clarkson Potter). Optimism rules in a pair of companion releases: Jonathan Adler on Happy Chic Accessorizing and Jonathan Adler on Happy Chic Colors (Sterling Innovation).

Speaking of happy, Interior Design is thrilled to announce that our Best of Year Awards, presented live in New York and published in our December issue, is about to debut in hardcover. The book will feature the 2010 project and product honorees. Pick up your copy at Chicago's NeoCon fair in June. ➤
